TIMELESS FLOW

FIVE STATES OF PERCEPTION: ART, LOVE, AND THE AGELESS SOUL

Timeless Flow is a journey through perception, memory, emotion, and the senses. The exhibition explores questions that transcend conventional boundaries: Can love be limited by time? Can the soul be measured by age? Can art belong to a single moment or form?

For me, art begins where words become insufficient. Through color, texture, light, movement, and symbolic forms, I translate emotions and experiences that cannot be fully expressed through language. Like pages from a personal journal, these works carry fragments of my inner world.

Once shared, however, these emotions become collective. A personal feeling transforms into a shared experience, creating space for viewers to discover their own memories and connections.

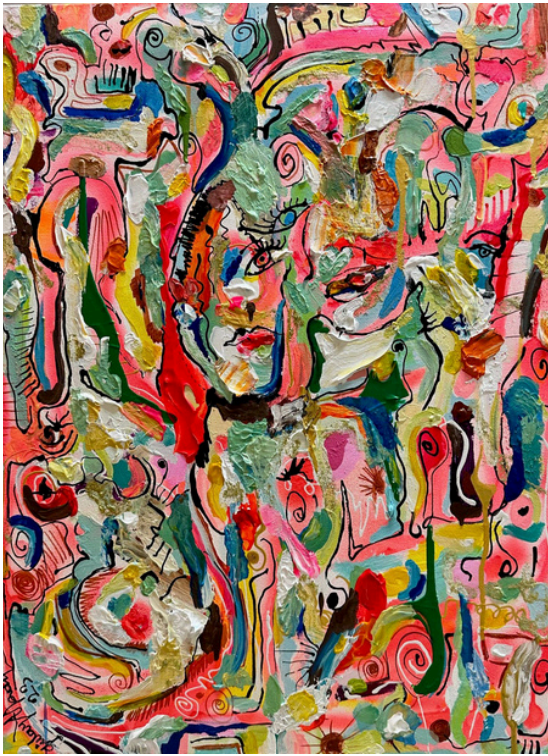

Alongside the paintings, a collective body installation invites viewers to touch, wear, enter, and become part of the artwork. Through this engagement, art shifts from something observed to something lived.

Timeless Flow explores how love, soul, and art move beyond age, time, language, and conventional forms, opening a space that is sensual, connected, and timeless.

ARTIST BIO

Gulay Alpay is a Toronto-based interdisciplinary artist whose practice spans painting, installation, performance, textile, and mixed media. She holds BFA and MFA degrees in Painting from Mimar Sinan Fine Arts University in Istanbul, Turkiye, and continues her studies in Indigenous Art and Culture at OCAD University. Her work has been presented in international exhibitions, including the Democracy Exchange exhibition at OCAD University, and she was recently featured at Partial Gallery through the RBC CEAD x OCAD U Showcase. She is also an awarded and selected artist for OCAD University's 150th Anniversary celebrations, where her collective body project will be activated this October through exhibition, performance, and installation.
